ECONOMIC REPORT

BUSINESS DEVELOPMENTS AND SITUATION

In the first three months of the financial year 2019/20 the business of AT&S recorded a stable development overall: Revenue, at € 222.1 million was stable at the prior-year level, with revenue from the Mobile Devices and Industrial segments decreasing. The declines were largely offset by sales volume increases in the IC Substrates and Medical & Healthcare segments.

Earnings for the quarter declined as expected: EBITDA decreased by € 17.1 million or -32.9% from € 52.0 million to € 34.9 million. The reasons for the current earnings figures can be found both in the market and in the substantial future investments in the strategic expansion of the business. With respect to the market, mobile devices were faced with increased seasonality in the past two quarters. In addition, the Automotive and Industrial business slowed down reflecting the general economic situation. Both aspects lead to underutilisation of the production capacities and a lower operating performance.

AT&S is increasing investments in research & development to prepare for future technology generations and to pursue the modularisation strategy. These expenses secure the company's sustainability and significantly expand the earnings potential in the medium term.

The EBITDA margin was 15.7% down 7.7 percentage points on the prior-year value of 23.4%. Due to the above-mentioned effects, EBIT dropped by € 18.9 million from € 18.3 million to € -0.6 million. The EBIT margin amounted to -0.3% (previous year: 8.3%).

Finance costs – net declined from € 1.7 million to € -1.7 million primarily due to foreign currency differences resulting from the measurement of liquid foreign currency funds and debts.

Net profit/loss for the period fell by € 19.7 million from € 13.5 million to € -6.2 million due to the lower operating result.

BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT BY SEGMENTS

The AT&S Group breaks its operating activities down into three segments: Mobile Devices & Substrates, Automotive, Industrial, Medical, and Others. For further information on the segments and segment reporting please refer to the Annual Report 2018/19.

Mobile Devices & Substrates segment

Segment revenue rose by € 6.3 million or 3.9% from € 160.2 million to € 166.4 million, with the decline recorded for mobile devices being offset by volume increases in the IC substrate sector. EBITDA fell by € 15.5 million or -39.4% from € 39.3 million to € 23.8 million due to increased seasonality in the Mobile Devices sector and the resulting capacity underutilisation and lower operating performance. Overall, this led to an EBITDA margin of 14.3%, which is below the prior-year value of 24.5%. EBIT at € -5.5 million, was € 15.9 million lower than in the previous year, at € 10.4 million. The resulting EBIT margin amounts to -3.3% (previous year: 6.5%).

Automotive, Industrial, Medical segment

Segment revenue, at € 88.1 million was at the level of the previous year. In particular, the Medical & Healthcare sector recorded strong demand in the first three months. In the Industrial sector demand declined in line with the market environment.

Due to the market-related underutilisation the Automotive and Industrial business the segment's EBITDA amounted to € 10.9 million, down € 1.1 million on the prior-year value of € 12.0 million. Due to these effects, the EBITDA margin decreased by 1.0 percentage points from 13.4% to 12.4%. EBIT fell by € 2.3 million or -30.3% from € 7.5 million to € 5.3 million.

FINANCIAL POSITION

Total assets decreased by € 9.2 million or -0.5% from € 1,784.1 million to € 1,774.9 million in the first three months of the financial year.

Cash and cash equivalents amounted to € 286.1 million (31 March 2019: € 326.8 million). In addition to cash and cash equivalents, AT&S has financial assets of € 250.4 million and unused credit lines of € 185.3 million to secure the financing of the future investment programme and short-term repayments.

Equity decreased by € 44.2 million or 5.5% from € 803.5 million at the balance sheet date to € 759.3 million as a result of the net loss for the period of € -6.2 million and negative exchange rate effects of € -35.7 million resulting from the translation of the net asset position of the subsidiaries. The equity ratio, at 42.8%, was 2.2 percentage points lower than at 31 March 2019; it remains at a high level. Net debt increased by € 58.3 million or 38.8% from € 150.3 million to € 208.6 million.

Cash flow from operating activities amounted to € 28.5 million in the first three months of 2019/20 (previous year: € 4.6 million). Cash inflows were offset by cash outflows for net investments of € 49.7 million (previous year: € 17.1 million), resulting in free cash flow from operations of € -21.2 million (previous year: € -12.5 million).

EVENTS AFTER CLOSING DATE

To strengthen the IC substrate business, the Group decided in July to further expand capacity at the locations in Chongqing and Leoben. The investment volume totals up to € 1 billion and will be distributed over the next five years. The start of production is scheduled for 2021. First revenues from these additional capacities are expected for early 2022. The investment focus is on Chongqing. This decision was triggered by the significantly growing market demand for IC substrates for the application in high-performance modules in the coming years. This gives AT&S the opportunity to significantly strengthen its position in the market for IC substrates. As a result of expanding its business volume with these applications, AT&S will be able to further balance out the entire product portfolio and to reduce dependencies. This capacity expansion also provides the basis for a further diversification of the customer portfolio in the future. The investment project will be implemented in close cooperation with a leading semiconductor manufacturer. In addition to production, the partnership also comprises the technology development of future substrate architectures.

OUTLOOK

After the first quarter, the Management Board confirms the earnings forecast for the full year although the market environment is very challenging and visibility is still low. Based on the current weakness in demand in the Mobile Devices, Automotive and Industrial segments, revenue is expected to remain at the level of the previous year, with an EBITDA margin expected in the range of 20 to 25%.

A volume of € 80 to 100 million is planned for maintenance and technology upgrades. Depending on the market development, an additional € 100 million for capacity and technology expansions may be incurred. For the capacity expansion in the area of IC substrates, expenses for investments will be increased from € 80 million to up to € 180 million.

Medium-term guidance

With the current investment decision, the Management Board is increasing its medium-term guidance: As part of the strategy “More than AT&S”, the Group expects revenue to double to € 2 billion in the next five years (previous revenue guidance: € 1.5 billion). This corresponds to a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of roughly 15%. Based on the stronger focus on high-end applications, the historical trend of a continuous and sustainable margin improvement can be continued, and an EBITDA margin in the range of 25% to 30% can be achieved in the medium term. The Group’s medium-term ROCE target is more than 12%.
